

Professional Liability

Claims against professionals, including lawyers, physicians, engineers, accountants, officers, directors, brokers, and trustees, are being brought with increasing frequency. Our Professional Liability attorneys represent a range of clients from some of the largest professional firms to regional and smaller companies, as well as individuals. Our representation includes law firms, accountants, healthcare providers, diagnostic laboratories, hospitals, medical facilities, professional services firms and their partners and executives.

Our Professional Liability attorneys are experienced trial attorneys and appellate advocates who handle a wide spectrum of liability suits, including malpractice, professional negligence, negligent misrepresentation, fraud, conflicts of interest and other ethical violations, breach of fiduciary duty and SEC violations. We counsel and draft formal opinions designed to assist professionals in understanding and complying with their legal and ethical obligations. We also counsel and represent professionals before state licensing, regulatory and disciplinary authorities.

Our attorneys are knowledgeable about the rules and regulations governing professionals and are skilled in vigorously representing our professional clients. Clients turn to Bressler's Professional Liability team for strategic representation when facing complex legal, professional, and ethical challenges arising in malpractice claims. Our team excels when the stakes are high, the underlying facts are complex, and our client's reputation and career are on the line.
