National Law Firm Elevates Three Attorneys to Shareholder Positions

Atlanta Attorneys Named Income Shareholders

HOUSTON (February 21, 2013) – National law firm Chamberlain Hrdlicka has promoted three attorneys from its Atlanta office to shareholder positions. David Dreyer, Karen Kurtz and Robert Jeffrey Waddell were named Income Shareholders at the firm’s annual Shareholders meeting in Houston.

“We are proud to see our attorneys grow in step with our expanding practice,” said Wayne Risoli, managing shareholder, Chamberlain Hrdlicka. “David, Karen and Jeff have steadily advanced in every facet of their respective practices, making significant contributions to our firm’s success.”

David Dreyer is an experienced commercial litigator who handles a wide variety of business disputes for clients ranging from large multi-national companies to start-up business. He also has trial, arbitration and mediation experience. Dreyer was recognized in 2012 as a “Georgia Rising Star” in business litigation by Georgia Super Lawyers and was selected by the Daily Report as one of 14 attorneys under 40 who are “On the Rise.”

Karen Kurtz focuses her practice on income, estate and gift tax planning for businesses and high net worth individuals. Her practice also includes the formation and restructuring of captive insurance companies and other business entities. In addition, Kurtz provides support for tax and probate litigation efforts.

Jeff Waddell maintains a multi-faceted practice focused on the issues and concerns of business owners, including contracts, mergers, lending, acquisition of real estate, corporate succession and wealth preservation. He has developed a special focus on business succession planning for small to midsized family businesses. Waddell has also developed a niche practice representing restaurant clients.
