

JAYME JONAT TO SPEAK AT LEGALWEEK ON THE NEW REMOTE LEGAL WORLD

03.17.2023

New York—Holwell Shuster & Goldberg LLP partner Jayme Jonat will speak at Legalweek New York on a panel exploring collaboration in the new hybrid legal world on March 21 at 2 p.m. ET.

Moderated by Shana Simmons, chief legal officer of Everlaw, the panel will address how to effectively collaborate across remote legal teams. Jayme will share her personal views on achieving successful remote collaboration using new technology and innovative products. She and the panel will also share helpful tips that can positively impact a firm's value.

Joining Jayme on the panel will be Jonathan Sabin, former HSG associate and current partner at Kane Kessler, and Meredith Williams-Range, chief knowledge officer at Shearman & Sterling.

Jayme represents clients in high-stakes commercial litigations, often touching on securities- and antitrust-related issues. Equally comfortable representing plaintiffs and defendants, she has been involved in numerous large-scale litigation efforts that, in addition to their considerable monetary stakes, have tested new legal theories and affected business practices across entire industries.

Jayme received Crain's New York Business' Notable Women in Law award and has been named a Litigation Trailblazer by The National Law Journal. She has also been recognized on Benchmark Litigation's 40 & Under Hot List, Euromoney's Rising Stars – Best in Litigation shortlist, and Profiles in Diversity Journal's Women Worth Watching list.
